My dear Dr Darwin

I take great pleasure in receiving you the letters you ask for. I find among my father's papers but three letters from you father. The others addressed to me, and I think really all of comparative date. I have no doubt I shall not have to thank you often for your publishing any thing you think or think may be of interest to others. Of course I need not say that I value them much highly, I trust they will not only read, you safely but also find them very good to read.

I shall always cherish as among the most interesting of my scientific papers my visits to you father & shall never forget his cordial reception of me his interest in all my plans and his continued correspondence at times when he must have been overwhelmed with letters.

Will you present my respectful regards to

Dear Garrison, and remember me kindly to you both the same and believe me

Very sincerely yours
A. Garrison.
