Conceptual Review Process

This guide describes the Conceptual Review Process.

The Conceptual Review (i.e Pre-Application) was created to provide formal opportunity for applicants to discuss requirements, standards, and procedures, which apply to development proposals. The review by Staff is intended to provide information that will assist an applicant in making key decisions about a development proposal prior to submitting an application for a land use or development. The conceptual review process also assists applicants in gaining in-depth understanding of the County's Development Review Process and Land Use Regulations.

Staff review comments are given to the applicant one week prior to the Conceptual Review Meeting. A final formal summary of the meeting with staff comments are also given to the applicant one week after the meeting. Typically if a Conceptual Review application is submitted to the County by noon on a Wednesday, the Conceptual Review Meeting will be scheduled for Monday afternoon, 2 weeks after receipt of the application (See Conceptual Review Timeline).

The Conceptual Review Meeting is voluntary for development application. However, staff highly encourages such application as the process serves as a means of identifying potential problems prior to making formal application.
