Document version 3.0 (2021.07)

General information

Technical specifications

Artwork should be supplied in PDF format. To ensure good reproduction of your artwork please supply a PDF to PDF/X-1a standard. If this is not possible, supply a standard CMYK, high resolution PDF (at least 300dpi), with all fonts and images embedded. Ensure that bleed is included and clearly shown with bleed marks.

- PDFs should not use any passwords or security options
- Artwork should be pre-flattened so there are no transparent objects in the supplied file
- Full page advertisements must have a bleed of 3.175 mm
- Should not exceed ink density of 300%

Colour

- All files must use a CMYK or greyscale colour space
- No spot colours should be used
- No colour management, ICC profiles or Lab colour should be used

Images

- Images should be no less than 300dpi
- Images must be CMYK or greyscale

Proofs

For best colour reproduction you must supply an accurate colour proof. Send via conventional mail to your production contact. For display adverts, send to Khuram Rashid; for inserts and outserts, send to Natalie Smith (see box). The proof must have been created from the same digital files as those supplied to us. For monochrome advertisements, a laser print is sufficient.

Inserts and outserts

Insert samples

A sample of the insert needs to be approved by the Production department prior to insertion with the journal. Ideally this should be the actual piece, but if not available, a mock-up trimmed to the exact dimensions, using the same paper and folded or perforated as the final insert would be, should be provided. This needs to be with us at least two weeks prior to the issue date. A digital copy must also be sent in advance to check for content.

Please send 5 samples to the Production contact, clearly identifying the front and back of the insert, or the page numbers where appropriate.

See below for insert dimensions and also page 3 for other technical specifications. Once approved, inserts will need to be delivered to the relevant printing house; follow the delivery instructions from your Production contact, Natalie Smith (see page 3).

If you have any queries regarding inserts please contact the production department.
