Is your journal already well-established, offering open access and implementing Article Processing Charges (APCs) for authors? Sciendo presents a customized solution:

Article Processing Charge Model

Sciendo's APC model supports open access publishing, allowing prominent, impacted journals to embrace a distinct strategy for handling publication costs. Unlike traditional models, Sciendo's APC approach ensures that collected payments directly cover publishing expenses, with any surplus funds redirected back into the journal.

Available in both Classic and Premier packages, this transparent approach aligns with Sciendo's commitment to enhancing and expanding the reach and impact of scholarly work.

Books

Beyond journal publication, Sciendo offers a comprehensive suite of services specifically designed for academic presses. With our commitment to excellence and expansive reach, we ensure every title receives the recognition and distribution it deserves, whether through traditional sales channels or the open-access model.

Services for academic books include:

- A dedicated website for each title.
- Online publication.
- An extensive distribution network.
- Fundamental indexing to ensure effective audience reach.
- Infrastructure for direct purchases and institutional access via IP authorization for paid access titles.

Our progressive pricing model is structured to make large orders more feasible and economical for universities and research centers. This strategic approach positions Sciendo as your premier publishing partner, enabling your institution to extensively share and enhance its research.

Conference Proceedings

Sciendo's publishing expertise extends to services offered to conference organizers seeking global distribution and recognition for their proceedings.

Recognizing the diverse needs of organizers, we offer two distinct models tailored to accommodate both standalone and series publications:

- Single-volume proceedings - We offer global content dissemination through our publishing platform, facilitating library integration and inclusion in indexing databases. Editors are provided with pre-evaluation support designed to prepare their titles for inclusion by Clarivate's Conference Proceedings Citation Index.
- Series publications receive the same suite of services as single volumes. Additionally, they benefit from ISSN registration, access to advanced submission and peer review management system, and recommendations aimed at preparing their series for inclusion in the Scopus database.

Additional services, such as advanced marketing, copyediting or files composition, are available to enhance proceedings' visibility and citation potential.
