Speaker Hernandez, B.: "The House will be in order. Members will be in their chairs. We shall be led in prayer today by Wayne Padget, the Assistant Doorkeeper. Members and guests are asked are asked to refrain from starting their laptops, turn off all cell phones, and rise for the invocation and the Pledge of Allegiance."

Assistant Doorkeeper Padget: "Let us pray. Dear heavenly father, we ask today that you give those in authority wisdom in every decision and help them to think clearly. Grant them discernment and common sense so they'll be strong and effective leaders. Help them to lead and govern with integrity and may their integrity guide them and keep them on track. Lord, we pray for your protection over our leaders. Protect their hearts and minds as well as their bodies so that no evil may befall them as they do the work. Bless them as well, for they carry a heavy burden on behalf of this great state. And heal our state, O Lord, of hatred and evil that has been allowed to permeate our society, and make whole so that we may truthfully say that we are one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all. These things we pray, Amen."

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "We will be led by... the Pledge of Allegiance today by Leader Ortiz."

Ortiz - et al: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Gabel: "Speaker, let the record show that Representatives Jones, Burke, and Gordon-Booth are excused today."

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Leader Windhorst is recognized to report any excused absences on the Republican side of the aisle."

Windhorst: "There are no excused absences on the Republican side."

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Have all recorded themselves who wish? Have all recorded themselves who wish? Mr. Clerk, please take the record. There being 112 Members answering the roll call, a quorum is present. Representative West, for what reason do you seek recognition?"

West: "Thank you, Madam Speaker. Point of personal privilege."

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Please proceed."

West: "Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise to welcome and introduce you all to my Pages. I have three Pages today from Stephanie Miller. And before I go forward with that, Stephanie Miller's our operations manager. She's been working on our staff for 15 years and today's her first time on the House Floor. Can we give her a hand, applaud? Welcome to the floor. But also, bear with me on this one, I have three Pages. I have her sons. Brendan Miller, he's 15 years old. He's a sophomore at Southeast High School. Isaiah Miller, he's nine years old. He's in fourth grade at Sandberg Elementary. And the birthday boy, Damian Miller, who turns 12 today. He's a sixth grader at Franklin Middle School. So, if you don't mind, can you sing with me Happy Birthday, then I'll sit down."

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Representative Egofske, for what reason do you seek recognition?"

Egofske: "Personal privilege, please, Madam Speaker."

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Please proceed."

Egofske: "Unfortunately, yesterday we received some very tragic news. Our Western Springs mayor, Alice Gallagher, passed away suddenly and unexpectedly. Mayor Gallagher has served as a village president since 2017 and, prior to that, as village trustee. On behalf of our entire Assembly, I want to extend our deepest condolences to her husband, Terry, and five children. In her honor, can you please join me in a moment of silence?"

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Members, we'll have a moment of silence."

Egofske: "Thank you."

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Representative Ugaste, for what reason do you seek recognition?"

Ugaste: "Thank you, Madam Speaker. I'd like to introduce my Page for the day. And while... his name is Rex Pomaro, and I'd like to welcome him to the House of Representatives. He's from Geneva, Illinois, my home town. And while Rex does admit that he has a birthday, he says it's not his today, nor does he want us singing to him. And after that rendition, I think I understand why. Rex is an eighth grader at Geneva Middle School, has many special interests, including history and politics. He also is a cross country runner. He takes fencing classes and is a saxophone player, so he has a lot... lot to do and a lot of things ahead of him. This past summer, he worked on the campaign for a Congressman. Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Leader Keicher, for what reason do you seek recognition?"

Keicher: "A point... a point of personal privilege, Madam Speaker."

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Please proceed."

Keicher: "So, during Women's History Month, we've had the opportunity to hear about a number of tremendous women that have impacted the lives of so many Illinoisans. I rise today to honor one of the most special to me. My mother is celebrating her birthday today. This was a woman who waited tables to keep a roof over our head and was proud enough to see each of her children graduate from Northern Illinois University and go on to amazing futures, all because of what we offer here in this great state. So, happy birthday, mom."

She is also the first Latina leader of that well-respected organization and will draw on her work over two decades of public sector positions. I also want to mention that in 2019 she was recognized by Crain's Chicago Business as one of the... one of Chicago's most powerful Latinos. And also, she is an immigrant from Ecuador. She grew up in L.A., but she calls Chicago home. So again, I had a chance to serve with Andrea on a not-for-profit board not long ago. LaPointe: "Point of personal privilege."

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Please proceed."

LaPointe: "Today, I want to recognize a special group of professionals and a special person that are visiting the chamber. I'm talking about direct support professionals, also known as DSPs. They work at Clearbrook, they work at Search, they work at the Ray Graham Association, and other nonprofits. These are our professionals who care for our, our, our Illinois residents, our Illinois neighbors that have intellectual and developmental disabilities. Our DSPs help with activities of daily living, cooking, transportation, helping people find supported employment. I met a DSP back in February who really touched my heart with her heart. Her name is Nina Kpai. She is in the chamber right now, behind me, up there waving. She touched my heart because she shared her work as a DSP. Nina works at Clearbrook. I used to work at Clearbrook as a one-on-one aide to a boy with autism. Nina has worked in the field, supporting our neighbors with DD, for 19 years. She's not doing it for the money. If you know anything about DSPs, it's been a fight to get their wages up just over minimum wage. Today, Nina works at the Miner CILA program in Arlington Heights, caring for and uplifting our Illinois residents with intellectual and developmental disabilities. She initially went to school to become a nurse, but when she saw how the DD community needed her, she changed course. Nina works a full hour from where she lives, and she gives up time with her own family to be there for the residents of the CILA. And I think as a lot of us know, we are in an agonizing staffing crisis when it comes to our DD system. A full 25 percent of DSP positions in Illinois are unfilled, and that means our good people who continue to do the job are burning the candle at both ends and often burning out. But some of them haven't burned out yet, and they're here today advocating to get more support and to bring up those DSP wages. So, thank you for listening. And thank you to Nina and to all the DSPs in every corner of Illinois. Let's give you another round of applause."

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Leader McCombie, for what reason do you seek recognition?"

Leader McCombie: "Thank you, Speaker. I would like to introduce today Sam Kaitschuk. So, happy birthday early. He is a soccer player and is pretty good, will be playing on the varsity team this year. He enjoys watching movies, hanging out with his family and friends, and hopes to go to law school and maybe come and lobby in Springfield someday. So, please give him a warm welcome."

This Bill protects libraries from external attempts to ban certain books and would make libraries and library systems which fail to disallow the banning of specific books ineligible for state grants starting in 2024. Banning books is the sort of behavior that was once, for good reason, associated with the worst, most repressive and repugnant authoritarian regimes of the mid-20th century and before. The fact that this is even up for discussion in America in the 21st century is disgusting. And yet, just last year in my district, that discussion was spurred on by a few radical parents and the Proud Boys hate group over a book called Gender Queer. All too often we see the books targeted by these hate groups and radical fringe parents are books having to deal with LGBTQIA+ identities or black and brown authors. Students led a community-supported effort in my district to keep the book in the library, but kids shouldn't have to be the heroes and weeks of local community meetings shouldn't have to be derailed. Nobody is forcing you or your children to check out or purchase or read these books. If they are not consistent with your personal beliefs, don't read them. You have the right to live your life according to your own beliefs. But in this country, and in this state, you have no right to force your beliefs down others' throats by dictating what ideas they may and may not be exposed to. I ask for your 'aye' vote."

Stava-Murray: "The librarian and the librarians across this state who are trained..."

McCombie: "Okay."

Stava-Murray: "...in library science, where a board member may not be."

McCombie: "Okay. I wasn't able to... to see the committee debate, but you know, I think it's false to think that... that we want to ban books. But the concern with many parents in our districts is... is where they're placed. For example, a book that may have graphic illustrations in a position where young children can see them, I think, is the concern. But you're stating that this Bill does not address those concerns. It's only to prohibit the banning of books. Is that correct?"

Stava-Murray: "This is to prohibit the banning of books."

McCombie: "Okay. Thank you."

Stava-Murray: "And I think it's the position to your... to your question there. It's the position of the Secretary of State's Office, and myself, that each child develops at a different rate and has different needs. So, what might be considered too mature for one child may be perfectly suited to another child. For that reason, books are selected by library staff for the institutions' collections. They should be made readily available and parents should exercise their rights and responsibilities as to their own children."

McCombie: "Okay. So... so, librarians..."

Stava-Murray: "So, simply what we're saying here is you are not allowed to say that someone else's child can't access that book in the library."

McCombie: "But the librarian can say that is what you're saying."

Stava-Murray: "The librarian has the authority to dictate what materials are available in a collection."

McCombie: "That... that's maybe a bigger conversation because that sounds like a very slippery slope, that a local librarian is saying what's appropriate for your kids or my kids. But like you said, that's not addressed in this Bill. So, thank you."

I assure you that this book is... this Bill is... it's very important, and it hearkens back to a period of time in the 60s where African Americans could not go into public libraries and check out the same books that are available to white people in those same libraries. And we are trying to prevent the kind of train that is running in many states that are banning and prohibiting books, and access to those books, to our children. Parents, as was previously said, can choose to check out a book or not. But we certainly should not be funding libraries that tend to ban books about ethnic communities, groups, and those in the LGBTQ community. I urge an 'aye' vote for House Bill 2789."

And I can speak to this personally, because it happened in my district, school district, for weeks on end. And we had school board members who chose not to run again because of this very experience. So, if want to continue driving people out of politics who are moderates, who actually try to get the work of the people done, then by all means, let's keep the current policy. But if we care about making sure that people want to volunteer for their community and make those local decisions, then this is a good Bill to help them make those local decisions."

To me, this is a complete go-around and end-around on the local control and authority of library boards. April 4 this year. The electorate has had months of time and plenty of space to make a determination how they want their library boards to move forward for their local communities. These people volunteer as nonpartisan elected local officials. And for the state to tell a local library board, listen to the professionals, follow the professionals, I don't understand why we have local elections any more if a Bill like this passes. And I'm not saying the ones that have come since her do not, but they are not originally from our community. The one thing that I do have to say is when my child goes to our local library, they're accompanied by myself or my wife. So, a parent is there. Does this apply to schools? School libraries?"

Floor Amendment #2 actually becomes the Bill, and it deals with the issue the Capital Development Board has with making sure that we give preference to Illinois companies. It clears all that up for them, and it also extends the single prime that they utilize there to build and save money. I ask for a favorable roll call. I don't know of opposition."

this morning. And I think Representative Mayfield did a very good job of making the point that we are dealing with taxpayer dollars. So, when... when I hear people on the floor talk about these are our dollars to spend, it's a little bit frustrating because we are just returning these dollars to the people of the State of Illinois. And I want to ensure that we all remember that as we... as we go through all this. This... these grant dollars are not the Secretary of State's dollars. They're not the Treasurer's dollars. They're not the whoever's dollars. These belong to the people of the State of Illinois, and I do appreciate many of you that think about that every day. So, thank you very much."

Clerk Bolin: "House Bill 2826, a Bill for an Act concerning State government. Third Reading of this House Bill."

Tarver: "Thank you, Madam Speaker. This Bill is very straightforward. It ensures that the Department of Professional Regulation will not require criminal background information for offenses where it's already said those offenses cannot be used as a basis to deny a license. So, for example, cannabis possession. Cannabis is now legal. It's one of those offenses that cannot be used against you if you are applying for an architecture license, but they make you disclose it anyway. So, we had this debate in Labor. I want to thank Chairman Evans for being supportive of the Bill. I also will say on the record that I spoke to Leader Ugaste about some language to clarify this that I think we'll work on over in the Senate. I don't normally say let's send it to the Senate and work on it, but I think it's a very small nuance thing. So, I urge an 'aye' vote."

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Representative Ugaste is recognized."

shouldn't go into their... their analysis of any type of review for licensing, correct?"

Tarver: "That's correct. This is only related to things they've identified themselves they will not use against an applicant. So, it's not a litany of offenses but very specific ones that they've already said this will not be used against you for the purpose of this specific license."

Ugaste: "Okay. And as I indicated during committee and just so people on my side of the aisle are aware, the current issue I have with it, why we voted against it... and I'll probably voted against it today, but I really appreciate you agreeing to continue to work with me on this. It's been a matter of timing, as everything's been very short time frame here. That we want to make sure it's limited to only those things they shouldn't be collecting. And I'm just afraid, with the way things are worded right now, it may include other things as well. So, I look forward to working with you on that. I will be voting 'no', but I look forward to supporting it in the future, hopefully. Thank you."

Tarver: "Thank you. I appreciate that. And just for the record and for legislative intent, the intent is to limit it in the manner that we just both discussed."

Speaker Hernandez, B.: "Representative Tarver to close."

Tarver: "I urge an 'aye' vote. Thank you."

Ugaste: "Representative Vella, this... this Bill is going to require that the prevailing wage be paid for projects involving the hauling of material from... what is it... the metro... waste facilities that municipalities run to farms and things of that nature. Is that correct?"

Vella: "Well, it involves the hauling from the water treatment plants or facilities at a landfill, away from there. So, where it goes after that, I'm not sure. But because the landfill and the water treatment plant are paid for by public dollars, that's where prevailing wage would come in."

Ugaste: "Okay. And as far as the removal of this material, it's currently... is some of it currently being done by municipal employees?"

Vella: "I'm not... I'm not a hundred percent sure about that. It could be."

Ugaste: "And they're going to be covered by this Bill, though. Is that correct, if they are?"

Vella: "If they are... if they're doing this work of removing this... these biosolids, lime sludge, and lime residue, then they would be covered, yes."

Ugaste: "And I think we heard in committee about how a local farmer with a small operation himself picks this up and has it transported to his farm to spread this material that they use for fertilizer. Is that correct?"

Vella: "There was some discussion of a farmer who did pick it up at a public facility and then haul it off."

Vella: "Well..."

Ugaste: "At least if they are municipal employees."

Vella: "If they're municipal employees, yes. But if they're not, then no."

Ugaste: "So, that... this then, in essence, is going to require some municipalities because I believe we heard statements that some municipalities are doing this to have to increase either taxes or find the money, one way or the other, in order to pay it, correct?"

Vella: "I don't think this will be a tax increase. I... my understanding is most of the people are being paid prevailing wage as it is from the municipality side already. So, I don't foresee any tax increases."

For example, a veteran with Agent Orange disease or illness of cancer or something else. Unless that's identified on that death certificate, the widow or the family member will not receive the benefits of the DIC, which is a death and indemnity clause of about $1500 a month. Plus, the widow or widower do not... does not receive the CHAMPVA, which is a health care plan that they would fall on and potentially would not benefit from the homeowner's tax reduction cost. Yednock: "Well, I would say this keeps it in a federal administrative hearing."

Ugaste: "Okay. Okay. Fair enough. But it also does something further. It provides that the union can't be held liable for damages that one of its members may cause. Is... am I thinking of the correct Bill or am I confusing my Bills?"

Yednock: "You're thinking of the correct Bill, though part of a strike has an economic... there's always going to be an economic issue with that. You know, we're withholding work. It doesn't say that you can't go to State Court for property damage that was, you know, outside of the strike, we'll say. In other words, if I do something directly, throw a rock at your car or something, then that could be found in State Court, criminal court. But a lot of things that happen in strikes are not... don't rise to that level. We just don't believe that should be changed to State Court. It's always been in Federal Court, and that's where we want it to stay."

Ugaste: "Okay. But is being part of the strike... I think we heard an example... and again if I'm confusing Bills, forgive me, but we heard so many in Labor over the last few weeks. Wasn't there the scenario put forth where cement drivers were going on strike, and at the hour the strike was called, they parked trucks out in front of their employer's place of business and just left them and it caused damage to the cement trucks?"

Yednock: "That is correct. That is the Glacier case."

There might still be penalties, but this is always supposed to go to a labor court."

Ugaste: "Okay. To the Bill. I understand that the Sponsors are arguing for proper venue. And I think if that's all I was concerned about what was happening, I probably wouldn't spend as much time as I have on this. The issue I see here is this is, again, further slanting the playing field in favor of one side over another in business and labor and their dealings with each other. And we're basically taking away agency and their liability for agency as a union, but if the... should something happen the same way on the business end, I don't believe the agency is no longer present. One of them involves something that we... that really became exacerbated during the pandemic, where we aren't necessarily always moving folks from county jail to DOC in a timely fashion. One of the sentence credit programs requires a 60-day custody clock to start, and it would... in statute, starts when you arrive in DOC. This would simply change the language that it starts when you are convicted. There's no opposition. DOC is fine with it. The sheriffs are very happy with it. And then the second component involves... clarifies that the Department of Corrections has the authority to retroactively apply previous changes made to the awarding of program credit. So, things like rehabilitative programming and education programming, just giving them some language they need to make sure that they can accurately track those credits. This was proposed based on a 2022 Illinois State Water Plan, and that's a group of experts in the fields that got together and made a recommendation. It's just simply kind of moving the law to comport with technology that provides for reuse of water that has been treated."

So, it's definitely something that we're going... the direction that we're going in, in terms of reuse of water."

Windhorst: "And have municipalities or any local governments that are in engaged in this weighed in on this plan?"

Williams, A.: "I've heard from nobody opposed to this Bill. The EPA did reach out and they wanted to know the origins of the Bill, which is the Water Plan. So, again, this was round-tabled. I apologize I don't have more details about how that came about, but it was part of the long-term planning, and that's why we moved it. House Bill 3050 is a Bill that establishes the right for limited English-proficient individuals to meaningfully participate and understand the proceedings of state administrative hearings. Language assistance is currently provided by federal... it is a federal right, and that right is extended to the state court system, but there's a gap in the state administrative hearing process that needs to be addressed. Speaker Hoffman: "She indicates she'll yield."

Windhorst: "I happened to be in committee the day this... subbing in, when this Bill was called. And if I understood from the presentation, I believe you've said it here, this is mirroring the court process for interpreters and applying it to the administrative hearing venue, is that correct?"

Mah: "That is correct."

Windhorst: "There was also some concern, I believe, expressed about cost. Do you know what, if any, cost there is associated with this?"

Mah: "I believe the cost will be minimal. We've been talking with CPS... I mean CMS, excuse me, about doing this the most efficient way."

Windhorst: "And there are, in the Bill, languages designated. How were those languages chosen?"

Mah: "I believe through census data about the most common languages that are spoken in a given area."

And, you know, does it increase the cost on a mailing? Have you... tried..."

Mah: "The idea is to..."

Weber: "...printing that all out on one page to see how much space it takes?"

Mah: "The idea is to attach a page that includes the notification about one's right to an interpreter and language access."

Prospective renters often pay a screening fee for each property they apply to, which makes searching for rental units expensive and difficult for them in a competitive real... rental market. Reusable screening reports can save tenants from paying an application fee each time they apply for a rental unit. This Bill would standardize what that report looks like. If a report is accepted by a landlord, the landlord may not charge the applicant a fee for the landlord to access the report or an applicant screening fee. Landlords, however, are not required to accept the reusable tenant screening reports. I know of no opposition to this Bill. I'm open to any questions and ask for an 'aye' vote."

gives them more probability, but it is not... there's not a lot of them that go out there and just go gangbusters and invest in shore funds and stuff. Weber: "So, the Comptroller would be in charge of reviewing the investment plan?"

Andrade: "The Comptroller has the opportunity of 90 days to review the plan, and they don't have to approve it, but they can disapprove it. So, there is oversight on this."

Weber: "Okay. And is it true, if I remember, that the initial principal investment cannot be withdrawn?"

And since then, there have been over a hundred thousand individuals, mostly just low-income workers, just having for the first time a savings account. The employers working with them so they can put some savings into their accounts and have for the future. It's very, very successful. Since then, we've learned a lot.

STATE OF ILLINOIS

You may recall, Illinois was the first in the country to have a Secure Choice Program. And since then, six other states have followed our lead to implement a Secure Choice Program. And even those that are not employers enrolling in the Secure Choice Program have chosen, alternatively, to create their own retirement system... retirement account. So, this has been a very successful program. In those years since we started in 2018, we've learned a lot. And what has happened in every other state, other than Illinois, is we've created a hybrid approach about funding this account. So, what this proposal would do would be allow the Secure Choice advisory board to create a hybrid approach and not just have this paid for by interest accruing off the investments but also have a small fee that would apply to the individual account holder. It's sustainable. It's a really, really important program that has helped, again, over 120 thousand people in Illinois, with many more to go. I urge your support."

As many of you know, millions of Americans transfer money electronically to friends and family overseas. These transfers or remittances provide critical support to people across the world. Remittances are often sent once a month to households on income that is mainly destined to food, clothing, and family health care. The court held that the city could require him to take the high-deductible plan, not the most favorable plan the city offered its employees. This Bill makes it so that public safety employees who suffer a catastrophic injury must be offered a choice of any health insurance plan available to currently employed full-time employees. It would require the reporting of W-2 employees because, as of right now, they are not required to... businesses are not required to report them for the new hire directory. This often makes it very difficult for a state's attorneys office and the Department of Family Services in enforcing child support. That's what this Bill does. This Bill came out of Labor Committee, and there were many questions that were asked about it that I think are important for this Body to understand. Approximately 355 thousand families are served by HFS in their child support enforcement program. Of those cases, 11,500 are males who are the custodial parents or obligee, which is about 3 percent. So, this Bill impacts 97 percent of the cases because they are women. They are women who are raising children and who are not getting their child support. Of the... Clerk Bolin: "House Bill 3314, a Bill for an Act concerning civil law. Third Reading of this House Bill."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Guzzardi."

Guzzardi: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Thank you, Members. This is a measure that's intended to level the playing field at small claims court. So, in many consumer contracts, creditors often have a one-sided right in the contract to recover attorney's fees. So, the contract says that if the creditor prevails or the plaintiff prevails at an action, they can recover attorney's fees. But the consumer does not have that right, even if their creditor's claim is found to be unwarranted. So, as you might imagine, this leads to an imbalance in legal representation. In these cases, virtually all creditors are represented by counsel, but virtually no debtors are, and that leads to an imbalance in the outcomes. So, we want to follow the lead of 10 other states in requiring parity in these cases. There are two exceptions to when the defendants are allowed to recover attorney's fees. One is that if the plaintiff themselves does not request attorney's fees, then the defendant isn't allowed to recover them. And also, if both parties were represented by counsel in negotiating the underlying contract, they may not seek attorney's fees. So, this is really just designed for these kinds of one-sided contracts that consumers often find themselves in, and it's really to insulate them against bad actors who might be seeking to proceed with claims against them that are unfounded. Ugaste: "Okay."

Guzzardi: "So, yeah, the consumer contracts are defined in this statute as contracts in which money, property, or service that's the subject of transaction is primarily for a personal, family, or household purposes."

Ugaste: "So, this would include a lease for property as well as an auto lease then, correct?"

Guzzardi: "I suppose it might, yes."

Ugaste: "Okay. And this is basically... well, strike that. To the Bill."

Speaker Hoffman: "To the Bill."

possibly. But it's also just, again, dictating terms of contracts within the State of Illinois. Part of what we've always had within our... our legal system is that people are entitled to contract as they please. I know there was a bit of bipartisan... there was bipartisan support of this. I was the sole vote out of committee against it because I do not believe we should be injecting ourselves constantly into people's right to contract. I ask for a 'no' vote."

Kifowit: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. House Bill 3349 creates a grant program to ensure that there's financial literacy for those that are of the retirement age or the pension age. What we have found, what's been brought to my attention is that individuals tend to over-rely on their pensions and they don't properly plan for their retirement. And so, this is a Bill that's subject to appropriation and it allows the Illinois Board of Higher Education to give grants to any statewide association with regards to producing a financial literacy training program for public employees. We had discussion on this on committee. The training does have a component of videos and in-person. And for the most part, this'll just be available as another tool to ensure that our retirees are living in their retirement age financially secure."

Speaker Hoffman: "Leader Windhorst."

Windhorst: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will the Sponsor yield?"

Windhorst: "Does the State University Retirement System already provide in-person and online events to public employees that are employed by universities so that way they can understand options related to retirement that would cover a large part of what you're going... wanting to do with this?"

Kifowit: "Well, that's for only participants in the State University Retirement System. What we are looking at is individuals that are retiring with a pension. That could be a municipal employee. It could be an employee of AFSCME that work on the local level. It could be individuals outside that system. And to have training programs that are available.. of course, it's a grant system. So, they have to show there's a need, and they have to show their statewide ability to be able to provide this for individuals. And to me, another financial literacy program that would complement what might already be existing would not hurt because there are individuals that might seek and might need financial literacy to make sure that they retire in a secure fashion."

Windhorst: "Is the term 'public employee' defined in this Bill? Or there reference to it in... to a definition in another statute?"

Kifowit: "I don't have a definition. I can look up the language of the full text of the Bill, but the point is, is to have retirees have financial literacy. So, what we are looking at is individuals that would benefit from financial literacy program. Obviously, the State Board of Education, by rule, will have to establish the definitions and some of the parameters of the grant that they give. So, that would fall under those programs and that function of the Bill. We do that a lot. We pass Bills such as this and then the department comes through rules and most likely will define the definitions that need to be defined for the grant."

Windhorst: "My understanding is that was some of the concern on our side in committee, was that there was no definition of a public employee and how broad this would be. Thank you for your answers."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Walsh."

Walsh: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. House Bill 3351 amends the Illinois Power Agency Act to ensure the projects under the Illinois Solar for All Program are subject to prevailing wage requirements per the state Prevailing Wage Act. The Bill only not ensure... not only ensures fair pay for Illinois solar workers but also promotes program accountability and strengthens their state solar market. Is that... is that correct?"

Walsh: "That is correct."

Windhorst: "And the provisions of this Bill should have originally been in that Bill. Is that accurate to say? That was..."

Walsh: "Yes. So, in the negotiations through CEJA, this portion was negotiated and was supposed to be in effect. And there was a ruling from the IEPA that said there was certain segment that didn't apply to prevailing wage, and this Bill is clearing that up."

Windhorst: "So, for our side of the aisle, if they voted 'yes' on CEJA, they should consider voting 'yes' for this? And if they were..."

projects in the State of Illinois and this legislation will make that more expensive to do, thus less likely to happen?"

Walsh: "I would disagree with that. They're receiving... to be under this Bill, you would have to be receiving RECs that are paid for from the ratepayers. So, my argument would be that we want to make sure that the jobs that are created are good-paying jobs and they're up to the standards that we live by here in the State of Illinois."

Wilhour: "Gotcha. But they're still paid for by the ratepayers, which means the ratepayers are going to be paying more in rates than they would be if this wasn't otherwise happen. This is just really... to the Bill, Mr. Speaker."

Speaker Hoffman: "To the Bill."

Wilhour: "This kind of legislation is just really illustrative of how we get... we get into these situations where we are supposedly trying to create jobs in this state, but we're actually making it harder to create jobs in this state. And we're increasing the costs on ratepayers and everybody else. And we're making it less likely that solar projects are done in this state. So, I would encourage a 'no' vote."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Faver Dias."

Faver Dias: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. HB3363 is straightforward and seeks to amend the Child Care Act to conform with federal law and is an initiative of DCFS. The legislation requires DCFS to establish and maintain a database on the safety of consumer products. And the Bill changes the definition of children's products to include products intended for the use of children under age 12. DCFS seeks these changes to conform with federal language in the Consumer Product Safety Act. This Bill passed out of committee on leave. There is no known opposition, and I would encourage an 'aye' vote."

Reick: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Bill."

Speaker Hoffman: "To the Bill."

Reick: "We... the Bill did go out of committee on leave, but I think there's a cautionary tale here. I think there's a cautionary tale in the fact that we're now asking DCFS to do something else when it can't do its basic job of protecting children. I realize product safety data is important for children, but maybe it's not belong... this kind of testing does not belong within an agency that can't do its basic job right. Maybe it belongs in some other division that... where DCFS can use that information for its publication or whatever. But as far as for the agency itself... for the agency itself to be determining whether or not something falls within certain product safety classifications and things like that, I think, is another example of mission creep of an agency that has gone way too far. I... I urge everybody, when we're talking about Bills that deal with the child... this child welfare agency, look at them from the standpoint and within... through the prism of an agency that is really on the edge of not being able to do its fundamental job. So, while the Bill went out of... on leave on the committee, I voted against it here because I do believe that there are other agencies that are better served or better suited to do the kind of work that was called for in this Bill. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Speaker Hoffman: "Seeing no one seeking further recognition, Representative Faver Dias to close."

Faver Dias: "Yes. Just to clarify, we are not mandating DCFS to do this in the sense... DCFS came and asked us to make sure that we were in federal compliance. That's part one. And part

Windhorst: "And their objection, I'm assuming, was increased cost would... to the municipality would potentially lead to increased costs of the taxpayer."

Vella: "Well, I mean, that's... that is the theory. I think it will actually reduce costs because we're going to get good people doing the job right. So, you're not going to have to go back and do it over and over and over again."

Windhorst: "And the other opponents did not express what their opposition was?"

Vella: "They did not reach out to me, no."

Windhorst: "To the Bill. Again, this is a prevailing wage Bill that's going to likely lead to increased costs for municipalities and local governments, as well as... therefore, leading to increased taxes. I'd ask for a 'no' vote."

Davidsmeyer: "Okay. All right. I... I'm not sure I understand. I think this is probably already currently covered by the prevailing wage, but I'd like to hear more. Unfortunately, I don't have time to do any research. So, for now, I'm going to be 'no', but I think it's probably already covered."

Bottom line, another Bill that is going to increase the cost for all residents that are going to end up paying for these services that are currently not required to be prevailing wage, done by local contractors who will probably not bid these jobs because they don't know how to pay prevailing wage. Windhorst: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Hoffman: "She indicates she'll yield."

Windhorst: "Thank you. The Miller decision was 2012, I believe, or a little over 10 years ago. Is that right? And it applied to those who were under 18 years of age who were sentenced to more than 40 years in the Department of Corrections or in to prison. Is that correct?"

Jiménez: "Yes, I believe so."

Windhorst: "And so, several of those individuals were allowed to go back to court and be resentenced, but there's a group of individuals who were not resentenced. Is that because they... they didn't have a mechanism to go back to court. Is that accurate?"

Jiménez: "Yes. Yes."

Windhorst: "And this Bill is designed to address that by providing a mechanism for people to go back to court who couldn't otherwise but qualified under that Miller standard."

Jiménez: "Yes, that's correct."

Windhorst: "So, I appreciate you bringing this Bill and that intent behind it. There were a couple concerns I had. Number one is, the Miller decision was under 18 and this is under 21. So, that's a difference, obviously. And the other is that it's broader than... could be potentially broader than just those individuals sentenced who were receiving longer than 40-year sentences who were under 18 because it deals with proportionate penalties, which is an argument that could be made beyond just the Miller standard. So, I just wanted to express, I guess... to the Bill. I wanted to express that opposition. I understand the reason behind it and the purpose to provide that mechanism, but I think this is just too broad to achieve that purpose. Thank you."

Clerk Bolin: "House Bill 3396, a Bill for an Act concerning employment. Third Reading of this House Bill."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Yednock."

Yednock: "Thank you, Mr. Chair. HB3396 makes it a Class A misdemeanor to interfere with, obstruct, or impede a picket, demonstration, or other protest by placing any objects in the public right-of-way. I ask for a favorable vote."

Speaker Hoffman: "On this question, Representative Ugaste."

Representative Ugaste: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Hoffman: "Indicates he'll yield."

Ugaste: "Representative Yednock, the... the Bill actually indicates that a person who interferes or has the intent of interfering, obstructing, or impeding with a picket or a demonstration commits a Class A misdemeanor. The way it's drafted, wouldn't that include just going out and talking to a person, trying to convince them that they shouldn't be on a picket line?"

Yednock: "No, I don't believe so. That might be part of... other part of labor law, but this is really obstructing by placing objects, filling up the right-of-way, where we have the legal right to stand when we're protesting, trying to push us off that public right-of-way."

Ugaste: "Well, that may be the intent, but that's not, I think, the way it reads because it just says anyone who with the intent of interfering with, obstructing, or impeding the picket would commit a Class A misdemeanor. And I think that's a big problem because I think that people should have a right to at least go out and talk and try and convince people, whether the group likes it or not, whether someone, individual should be picketing. If an owner wants to go out and say something or there's some other type of conversation to have. And instead, we're going to make this a crime now, that a person can't even go out and say things to their employees. So, to the Bill. I... I understand what he's saying as far as wanting to be able to picket and as well as exercise their rights as union members, but I believe this goes a bit far and is creating a criminal penalty where none is needed. And I think we need to rethink how we're wording these Bills, how much is... what the actual intent may be, and what we're actually doing under the Bills. I urge a 'no' vote."

Speaker Hoffman: "Leader Windhorst."

Windhorst: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Hoffman: "Indicates he'll yield."

Windhorst: "Thank you. Representative, do you have any real-world examples of interfering with, obstructing, or impeding a picket?"

Yednock: "I have a... I have a particular one that happened this summer. During the course of a legal picket, legal strike, an employer decided to, over the midnight hours, fill up the right-of-way with rocks, with horse manure, with garbage, put their cars there to keep us from standing there. If we can't stand in the right-of-way, then we have to stand in the street. And you can't do that because it's a safety issue. We've always worked with law enforcement and neighbors to say we'll go somewhere, you know, that's safe, but that is the place where we are... we are supposed to be. And that's what happens, is unscrupulous employers, or people that are part of the strike, will fill up the public right-of-way with debris in order to keep us from being there."

Windhorst: "And you believe that this Bill will cover that conduct?"

Yednock: "Yes, I do. That's the intent."

Windhorst: "Okay. Do you have any... in this Bill, are there any limits or guardrails as to what can be considered interference, obstruction, or impeding?"

Yednock: "I think just past practice and labor law."

Windhorst: "And this is setting up a criminal penalty. Is that correct?"

Yednock: "That's correct."

Windhorst: "It's a Class A misdemeanor?"

Yednock: "Correct."

Windhorst: "And those penalties for a Class A misdemeanor are up to a year in jail, 364 days in jail, a fine of up to $2500, probation, conditional discharge of up to 2 years. This does set a minimum fine, though, of $500. Is that correct?"

Yednock: "That's correct, which is probably the likely outcome."

Windhorst: "So, just so we're clear, this is a penalty enhancement?"

Yednock: "That... there's no doubt about that, Representative Windhorst."

Windhorst: "No doubt this is a penalty enhancement. I would point out that Members on our side of the aisle put forward penalty enhancements during the General Assembly, and those Bills go nowhere because they are penalty enhancements. I have a Bill that says if you strike a doctor that is an aggravated battery. That Bill is still in Rules. The Leader has a Bill that if you strike or punch a DCFS worker that is an aggravating factor, an aggravating sentence. I believe that Bill is still in Rules. So, if we're going to not allow penalty enhancements, not allow, let's not allow them. I, instead, believe if we're going to have penalty enhancements for one side, our side should be able to put those forward, allow for debate and discussion in committee, and allow for votes. That's the proper way to do this. So, to the Bill, I would encourage a 'no' vote."

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

The Prevent Unfair Sentencing of Youth Act amends the unfair sentencing practices that are unfair to those who have experienced child sex trafficking and were punished for acts of self-defense against their abusers or sex buyers. Passing this Bill will move us closer to a legal system where youth cases are examined in a more age-appropriate and trauma-informed setting. I encourage an 'aye' vote."

Jiménez: "It's those who convicted the offense when they were under the age of 18."

Windhorst: "And there are certain things... I believe our side was all supportive of this in committee. It received a unanimous vote. And there are certain things that the Bill does that we are in support of. There is a concern I have, and I think I've expressed that to you, that there is another Bill that amends this section of law which changes the title of the section to under 21, which would potentially give this much broader reach than those that are just under 18. So, my concern is, if this Bill passes and that Bill were also to pass, that would either create some confusion or conflict in the law or defeat the intent of what we're voting on here. So, I appreciate what you're trying to do, and I agree with a large part of it. I'll likely be a 'no' because of that concern I just expressed. Thank you."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Costa Howard."

Costa Howard: "Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Hoffman: "She indicates she'll yield."

Costa Howard: "Representative Jiménez, does this apply to transfer hearings? And, Representative, I apologize. I missed your introduction to the Bill, but I didn't hear you mention that. So, I'm just trying to make sure I'm understanding the gist of this Bill."

When... as I'm trying to just double-check as I want to understand... so, it's a transfer jurisdiction, which is a transfer hearing? I just want to make sure I'm understanding... Speaker Windhorst asked about another Bill. And as I'm looking at it, you're just using the idea... if I'm... I apologize, Representative. I'm not making myself very clear to you, and I apologize for that. When I look at Section (b) in terms of the... based on clear and convincing evidence, one of the factors that the judge can use in their discretion is any involvement of the minor in the child welfare system, correct?"

Jiménez: "Yes, that's correct."

Costa Howard: "Okay. So, that's information the judge would be able to use in making their determination, whether or not that was a youth in care at some point."

Jiménez: "Yes."

Costa Howard: "And the trauma that that child had experienced while a youth in care could be used."

Jiménez: "That's right."

Costa Howard: "Okay. Thank you, Representative. I'm good."

Jiménez: "Thank you."

Representative Slaughter on House Bill 3418. Please read the Bill, Mr. Clerk."

Clerk Bolin: "House Bill 3418, a Bill for an Act concerning employment. Third Reading of this House Bill."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Slaughter."

Slaughter: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker and Ladies and Gentlemen of the House. House Bill 3418 is a community revitalization and job creation initiative championed by the Working Center for Racial Justice and the Small Business Advocacy Council. In putting forth creative efforts to improve public safety and to stimulate comprehensive economic development, it is critically important that we not only provide support to our reentry population but also collaboratively assist businesses and employers by incentivizing them to hire this at-risk, chronically unemployed and underemployed population. House Bill 3418 establishes a pilot program to, one, provide an expansion of the returning citizens tax credit to small businesses. Currently, all businesses are eligible for a $1500 tax credit if they hire formerly incarcerated individuals. Under this pilot, small businesses will be able... will be eligible for up to $5 thousand in tax credits. Small businesses are the economic backbone of our local communities. We are providing financial relief for small businesses that will train and hire formerly incarcerated individuals. Secondly, the second component of this pilot provides a critical wage subsidy program for employers to tap into in regards to paying the salaries to this population. Under House Bill 3418, all employers are eligible for 50 percent reimbursement for salaries. But if you are an employer doing business in a disproportionately impacted area, underserved community, you're eligible for a 75 percent reimbursement for these salaries. The many stakeholders that worked on this, myself, as well as Chairwoman Ammons, had several meetings over the last year with the Department of Commerce and Economic Opportunity, the Department of Corrections, and the Department of Revenue to work all of this out. DCEO will be the lead agency overseeing this pilot program. Let's please note here that they already oversee and manage our other wage subsidy programs. So, this is not anything new. We're not recreating the wheel in that regard. Although House Bill 3418 is subject to appropriation, we have worked with DCEO to flush out a budget for this program that includes the procurement of community navigators to assist with the implementation of this program, as well as internal resources needed on behalf of DCEO, and then, of course, the money to provide the actual wage subsidy. Lastly, Mr. Speaker, and I'd be remiss if I didn't mention that this Bill does have a research/data collection component. The effective date is immediate and has a repeal date of January 2029. We could run the pilot for that entire time. We don't have to, however. The goal is to get at least three solid years here. We want to see, once and for all, when we do address root causes, when we do take a wholistic public health approach to addressing this at-risk population, when we do put forth a true community revitalization effort to help formerly incarcerated individuals, what will be the impact? Would this population take advantage of the second chance and become positive, productive citizens and residents? I certainly believe so. We all, on both sides of the aisle, should be really excited about this opportunity. Mr. Speaker, I urge a 'yes' vote on House Bill 3418."

Speaker Hoffman: "On this question, Representative Ammons."

Ammons: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Bill."

Speaker Hoffman: "To the Bill."

Ammons: "Thank you. First of all, I'd like to thank Chairman Slaughter for the amount of work that we've done to combine these two Bills together. The initial Bill started with... my Bill was from the Small Business Advocacy Council who was working to try to figure out a way to incentivize the hiring of returning residents for Illinois. Representative Slaughter's Bill was the other side of this, which was the wage subsidy Bill. We worked for the last probably six or eight months with the Department of Commerce and Economic Opportunity to get the Bill to the status that it is before you today. This is a win-win situation for small businesses, as well as for those who are returning from Illinois Department of Corrections who are seeking simply an opportunity to work and take care of their families. This is exactly what many of us talk about we want. That's why it's called Safer Communities Wage Subsidy Pilot Program. We want to run this program for the next three years so that we can collect the data that would be necessary to not only demonstrate its success but also to demonstrate that there is cohesiveness and priority that's being given to employment for this population of Illinois residents. And we certainly urge an 'aye' vote."

Speaker Hoffman: "Leader Hammond."

Hammond: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Hoffman: "Indicates he'll yield."

Hammond: "So, Representative, we had some questions in committee, and if I may, I'd like to go over a couple of those again and maybe venture into some areas that we didn't touch upon. According to our analysis, the cost of this program is going to be $16.5 million. Is that your understanding as well?"

Slaughter: "Thank you, Representative, for the question. That is our understanding. We worked with our budget office but primarily with the Department of Commerce and Economic Opportunity. And that 16.5 million would serve approximately 500 participants. And again, you can scale that up or down. You know, you take about 8 million to 9 million and that could be 250 participants. But, yes, that is an accurate picture based on what DCEO flushed out budgetarily."

Hammond: "So, Representative, if we take the population of 500 and a $5 thousand grant, in my math world, that's $2.5 million. What are we doing with the other $14 million?"

Slaughter: "Okay. There's a couple things, but the 5 thousand may be resonating in your mind.."

Hammond: "Five thousand."

Slaughter: "...because that's the tax credit portion."

Hammond: "Okay."

Slaughter: "That 16.5 million, Leader, that you mentioned, does not go to the tax credit part. That's on the employer to file that with the Department of Revenue. In regards to the 16.5, that would go towards three things: one, the community navigators... the procurement of the community navigators to help with the program; secondly, the internal resources that DCEO is asking for to implement the program; and then, lastly, the funds, the actual money that would go towards the wage subsidy component of this."

Hammond: "Okay. So, when we talked about this in committee and I asked about the navigators and if they were being paid, at that time you said no. So, is..."

Slaughter: "And that was... and I stand correct... I stand corrected. They are going to be paid."

Hammond: "Okay. And so, how much are we going to... are we going to be paying an hourly wage to the navigators and... or a salary and what would that amount be?"

Slaughter: "We will not be paying an hourly wage, but they will be compensated to operate the program in the community."

Hammond: "And so..."

Slaughter: "And I don't know... I don't know the specific... what specific amount that is within the 16.5."

Hammond: "So, you don't have a specific amount but you put it into the 16.5 million?"

Slaughter: "That's true. Yes. DCEO... this is in collaboration with DCEO. This is what they flushed out. I can probably get that number for you, though."

Hammond: "Okay. And then, you talked about the... the wage sharing. Would that be a fair way of describing it? That there would be wage sharing through this program with the employers?"

Slaughter: "Yes, most definitely. And we're really excited about this particular component. If you are a large business, you can... no, I'm sorry. Any business can get the wage subsidy, and that's at 50 percent. If you are a business located in a disproportionately impacted area... these are the same areas and zones that we carved out for our legalized cannabis initiative. If you're located doing business in an underserved community, a DIA area, you can get 75 percent of reimbursement of those salaries."

Hammond: "So, how... how does that wage work if we, as a state, are sharing that with an individual business? Are those employees considered state employees at that point or how are we doing that? How would we classify that?"

Slaughter: "No. I mean, the employer would pay their share and then, again, could get reimbursed either at that 50 percent or 75 percent clip. It's really... and I'm glad that you asked this. The program's going to work like a voucher program. It'll follow the potential employee based on where they go. It's really going to be four basic simple steps. The individual's going to apply for the program with the community navigator. That can be electronically or in person. Secondly, once approved by the navigator, the individual will take this voucher to any business of their choice. We love this about the program. Third, the navigator shall enter into an agreement with the employer of an eligible participant to establish the general terms and conditions of the wage reimbursements with respect to the participant. And then lastly, Leader, the navigators will submit monthly reports that include the employment status of each participant and the wage reimbursement amount. That's the wage subsidy component. Again, on the tax credit piece, that's on the employer to file with the Department of Revenue to get that tax credit."

Hammond: "And so, these navigators, are they employees of DCEO or how do they qualify? What are their credentials for them to be a navigator for this program?"

Slaughter: "To the second part of that question, DCEO is going to promulgate and roll out rules on this. But they would essentially act as community providers, community organizations that are in... on the ground in the community really as a... as a operational workforce development hub to launch the program for individuals to come and enroll into the program."

Hammond: "So, Representative, I will say we have some real concerns on our side. And let me be very clear. It is not about the premise of this program. I think that what this program is trying to accomplish is absolutely needed and valid. We, as the State of Illinois, do not have a good history of involving individuals in our communities and making sure that they are doing the right thing for our people. We have messed that up many, many times in the past. And my fear is, by having so many cooks in the kitchen, if you will, with this Bill, I think this would be better if it were simply within DCEO and over... they had complete oversight of the program because I am very fearful that we are going to not see the best bang for our buck and for this population with this $16.5 million. So, I would urge a 'no' vote at this time. Thank you."

Speaker Hoffman: "Seeing no further recognition, Representative Slaughter to close."

Slaughter: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As we look to usher in a new chapter for community investment and community revitalization, let's enhance public safety by helping returning citizens become employed. This will help reduce recidivism and assist formerly incarcerated individuals in becoming positive, productive citizens and residents. Ladies and Gentlemen, this is financially responsible. We're helping put this population to work instead of trying to put them back in prison. Equally important, let's empower and incentivize small businesses across Illinois to participate in improving public safety, while also comprehensively stimulating our local economies. I urge a 'yes' vote on House Bill 3418. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Slaughter: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This Bill would direct the newly formed Commission on Equity and Inclusion to pick up the work of the General Assembly by holding and furnishing copies of all the supplier diversity reports that various industries file with various state agencies. It's hard for minority-owned businesses to look to find procurement opportunities with the state to access all the many reports the state collects. This Bill will make it easier to find these reports and does potentially help minority businesses grow. Many of you may know that, throughout the years, the General Assembly has collaborated with certain industries to pass Bills that required them to be more transparent regarding their efforts on supplier diversity spend. These industries include public utilities, railroads, hospitals, private higher ed, racinos, casinos, EDGE Tax Credit recipients, and there are some forthcoming. I believe the chamber just passed an insurance Bill of this nature last week, also looking at banks, also looking at telecom. Normally, if a polluter, like a factory or a plant of some sort, has to get a waiver to go beyond what the EPA guidelines provide, they will have to file a permit with the Pollution Control Board. So, to do that, you have to pay a fee of $75, currently, to the Pollution Control Board to allow you to work around those fees temporarily.. or those regulations temporarily. This simply raises the amount of the fee. It hasn't been changed since 1988. The money goes to the working.. functioning of the Board to make sure they can provide for permitting online. Speaker Hoffman: "That's fine. That's fine."

purpose in certain circumstances, we know that they're being abused. In fact, there was... there's... drug overdoses have been increasing in young people over the past few years. So, this Bill would ensure that all schools have an opioid antagonist on hand. And there were several questions that came up during the hearings. I did speak to the Principals Association this morning. They came to me with a couple more concerns, but the initial concerns were the cost. The cost is $22... approximately $22 for 18 months. And the other concern was the training. The training is available for free, and it is an 11-minute training. So, that would not really increase any costs or anything like that. There was also a document created by ED-RED and the Illinois Principals Association, which was entitled Mandated State and Federal Trainings, which included training on the administration of opioid antagonists. So, I think this about the safety of our children. It's about saving lives. The cost is fairly minimal. I will tell you that this morning, in discussions with the Principals Association, they have some new concerns that I think could be fairly easily addressed in the Senate. And I assured them that I would work with the Senator, which I believe will be Senator Glowiak, to insert any changes that are required. I would ask you to vote 'yes'."

Speaker Hoffman: "Leader Windhorst."

Windhorst: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will the Sponsor yield?"

required to maintain a supply of the opioid antagonist in any secure location where an individual may have an opioid overdose. Is there a specific area in the school where that must be maintained, such as just in the nurse's station or nurse's office, or in every classroom because students may be in a classroom and overdose, or in all the bathrooms because someone may overdose in a bathroom? Is there any limitation on the locations in a school where it must be maintained?"

Blair-Sherlock: "No. It's not specified exactly where you would put it, other than it be secured. I don't... I believe you could have in the hallway, you know, a secured, as long as people have access to it. But there's no... and there's separate... one of the reasons it's written this way, too, is 'cause there's separate buildings to some schools, right? So, we want to make sure that it's available in every building."

Windhorst: "And I understand that. I think a concern would be that it may be required because it's now... will be required by law. It will be required in more than one location in each building because it's not specific to that. I see the Principals Association is opposed. Have they expressed to you the nature of their opposition?"

Blair-Sherlock: "Well, that's what I was saying. I spoke to them this morning actually, and we've agreed that we would continue to work on this over in the Senate 'cause I... Senator Glowiak will be carrying the Bill in the Senate. Some of their concerns was actually the supply, whether or not they'd be able to get the antagonist, you know, 'cause we're having all these supply chain issues. And I think that's a legal impossibility, but we could clean up the language so that we never have to go there. Yeah, and just some of the training language, which I think, again, can be taken care of."

Windhorst: "So, your intent with that is to work on that in the Senate."

Blair-Sherlock: "In the Senate, yeah. As you know, the time frames are very tight here and we just spoke about it this morning."

Windhorst: "Thank you."

Blair-Sherlock: "Thank you."

Speaker Hoffman: "Representative Hauter."

Hauter: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Hoffman: "She indicates she'll yield."

Hauter: "So, is this your first Bill?"

Blair-Sherlock: "It is, but it's not my first rodeo."

Hauter: "Well, I was just going to ask you if you could please stand when presenting your Bill, but..."

Blair-Sherlock: "Okay, smarty pants. I'll remember that."

Hauter: "Thank you for this Bill, but I had just had a couple questions on the language and how it's presented. We're trying to make NARCAN highly available, and I just think that when you have language in there that only trained personnel can administer it, it decreases the amount of people who will actually, you know, be able to administer it."

Blair-Sherlock: "Well, every year, teachers are required to undergo certain trainings and they do a lot of their trainings through the GNC training website. And the training for this particular antagonist is an 11-minute, you know, free training on that website. So, it's not an intrusive, they have to take a half a day to get trained. It literally takes 11 minutes to do this training. So, I don't think that should be an issue."

Hauter: "Okay. I just want to emphasize, just like CPR and just like other lifesaving interventions, we're trying to enforce to the public that just about anyone can do it, and I think when we say you have to have some training, people become hesitant. So, I would love to be a part of this Bill, but I would emphasize that there shouldn't be any training requirements. You just give the drug. And if we could get that out to the public, that anybody could just grab it and give it. And when you say 'secured location', that also... I have a little hesitancy when you were trying to secure this because then it becomes less available. Again, people think, do I have to find a lock, do I have to find something? And just like AEDs and other interventions, we want it to be wide open and easily available, given by anybody. A five-year-old can give Naloxone."

Blair-Sherlock: "I... yeah, I understand that, and I wish people would be comfortable with that, but that's something that they're not necessarily comfortable with, the schools aren't necessarily comfortable with, is just letting their staff, you know, administer stuff without training. So, I think that this is fairly easy to administer, having watched the training, you know, but I think they're more comfortable with their... knowing that their staff is trained in this."

Hauter: "Would it be appropriate to put along with the AED onsite, would that be a secured location?"

Blair-Sherlock: "I would certainly think so, yes."

Currently, in Illinois, a school district cannot keep a substitute teacher in the classroom for more than 30 days. Means that the schools must shift the teachers around from classroom to classroom every 30 days. House Bill 3442 will allow the school district to utilize a substitute teacher for longer periods of time while still actively searching to hire a licensed teacher. This will give students more consistency, which will enhance the overall learning experience. It also sets a timeline for how long a substitute teacher can stay in the classroom, either 90 days or the end of a semester, and it addresses some training requirements. House Bill 3572 provides that all gas stoves which are sold in Illinois beginning January 1, 2024 must have a warning label that states the potential risks, including nitrogen dioxide and carbon monoxide. This legislation was brought to me from Illinois PIRG. This Bill is about helping Illinois make the best choices for themselves and their families by ensuring that we all have the facts. As I stated when I when I presented this Bill in committee, this is simply a labeling Bill. That's it. This Bill does not ban gas stoves. It does not prevent anyone from purchasing a gas stove. It does not require existing gas stoves to be modified or moved, nor does it require labels for preexisting gas stoves. It simply requires new gas stoves being manufactured and sold, starting January 1, 2024, that they have a label. We do have an Amendment that's expected to come in the Senate that will remove IRMA's opposition, and none of the other opponents have reached out to me directly.

Thank you, Members of the House, and I ask for your support."

Speaker Evans: "Representative Windhorst is recognized."

Windhorst: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Evans: "She indicated she will."

Windhorst: "Thank you. Representative, are there any other states that require this warning label?"

Stava-Murray: "If we pass this Bill, we would be the very first state to pass this warning label, which I think is a very positive step because I think it's being considered in many other states and various different legislations are being considered. But really, the consumer awareness of this product is not... the danger of this product is not very high. And we in Illinois, more than other states, are very reliant... heavily reliant on gas stove usage. So, I think, as opposed to other states, where about 12 percent of their childhood asthma is thought to be attributed to gas stoves, it could be as high as 21 percent of childhood asthma in the State of Illinois can be attributed to gas stoves. So, I think it's a critically important issue for our state, and I would love for us to be the first one to do it."

Windhorst: "So, we will be the first one. Thank you. The... our analysis shows there's opposition from the Retail Merchants Association, Energy Association, the Manufacturers' Association, and the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers. Have they expressed to you their opposition?"

Stava-Murray: "None of them came to me directly. IRMA did work with PIRG on an Amendment that should be coming in the Senate that will remove IRMA's opposition."

Windhorst: "Are you aware of what that Amendment is?"

Stava-Murray: "Yeah. It just simply states that where the label is meant to be, it has to be on the appliance itself. So, that way all floor models will be fitted with it as well. So, as people are shopping around, they'll be able to see the warning label pretty clearly."

Windhorst: "Are you aware of the other opposition, what the nature of that is?"

Stava-Murray: "I believe that there was a gentleman who testified in committee who worked for the manufacturers of the gas stoves, and they want to dispute 30 years' worth of science, so..."

Windhorst: "So, it's an issue of whether the cause is what you've expressed here."

Stava-Murray: "But it's a matter of people with monetary interests not wanting to lose money in the future by having a warning label on their product."

Windhorst: "And there's also an issue of cost that will be borne by others beyond the manufacturer that I think may be viewed as legitimate. To the Bill. I don't know that this is the best avenue for us to be first in the nation in taking this on, and there are a lot of concerns that have been expressed by the groups in opposition. So, I would encourage a 'no' vote."

Stava-Murray: "Not to my knowledge. I believe that we have a number of warning labels that are... that have been done through state Bills, though. And this would just model off of those."

Weber: "To the Bill. You know, this is just another thing where, you know, we're going to apply cost to something where the people who monitor this for the safety of our residents and put the labeling on these are not requiring it. They have not rated this as a dangerous appliance, and this will just end up as a cost passed on to the consumer and manufacturers. So, please vote 'no'."

My wife's a former director of the French Pastry School in Chicago and just about every chef out there I'm aware of is a firm believer in cooking with gas because the ability to control the temperature to do what you want to do on the stovetop. And I think what's got us most excited is the fear, the slippery slope that we seem to be walking on, is not only putting warning labels on things that are really going to be endless at the end of the day. But what I'm looking to elicit from you today, do you have any plans or will you pledge that this is the stopping point and you will not attempt to outlaw gas stoves and ranges in the State of Illinois by a certain date? If for some reason there were even more damning science that came forth that really said that these were a hazard, I can't say that in that circumstance, in every single possible circumstance, I would be a 'no'. But I would say, as it stands today with the current knowledge levels, I'm certainly not trying to ban gas stoves. I'm trying to put a warning label on them today."

Keicher: "But you're unwilling to say we're not going to undertake action to make sure that people in the State of Illinois can't use gas stoves?"

Stava-Murray: "I already... I already did say that. I said we're not undertaking that action today. What we're doing is simply applying a very basic warning label so consumers have knowledge and awareness. And knowledge is power, and they can do with that power what they want, whether it's buying a proper vent for their gas stove if they're very attached.."

Keicher: "So, to the... to the Bill. To the Bill, please, Mr. Speaker. We've got a situation here where, where is it going to end? Williams, A.: "Hi. Thank you. To the Bill. I was just listening to the last speaker, and we're talking a lot about... talking about electric stoves and cooking on electric stoves. Well, I have a gas stove. But you know, only about 22 percent of stoves in the United States are gas stoves. So, a lot of people are cooking on electric and the newest thing, which is an induction stove. Which is apparently all the rage among chefs and really looked at as a potential for really taking it up a notch in terms of cooking. I guess it can boil water in a matter of seconds. But when we go... we're talking about the health... you know, everyone's scoffing over there, but are you familiar with the kind of emissions and fumes that get trapped by a gas stove? Just 'cause we used them forever doesn't mean we don't need to reevaluate their safety. I was just pulling up an article which talks about a study that recently came out that says for children who live in a home with a gas stove, the increased risk of asthma is on par with living in a home with a smoker. Now, you can scoff, you can laugh, but that's what the studies are showing. The reality is, whether we like to admit it or not, carbon emissions are dangerous to our health, whether they're in our homes, emitting from a power plant, or from our cars. I think that's just a reality we have to look at, and I think that the fact that the Sponsor is addressing it from a health perspective is helpful, and I plan to vote 'yes' in support for that reason. But I would, before... before I would... again, go back to the induction stove, it uses electromagnets to officially heat cookware without the inherent pollution of fossil fuels and apparently is the cutting edge for many top chefs. So, check it out. Thank you."

Speaker Evans: "Stava-Murray to close."

Stava-Murray: "Thank you. I think in terms of a lot of the objections, they don't have to do with the actual warning label on the Bill. They have to do with worries that extend beyond it. So, here we're just literally telling people, giving people, consumers information that they need. And I feel very strongly about this because the very first time I heard about gas stoves potentially being harmful to children's health was earlier this year. And as a gas stove owner myself, who did not use the vent regularly, I was putting my own children's health at risk. And so, I really think that this is just a positive step to give consumers the information they need to get the right setup in their home to make sure that they're making the healthiest choice they can for themselves and their family. It sets out uniform statewide regulations governing the implosion of coal-fired powerplants, and it traces its origins back to the disastrous implosion of the Crawford coal plant in Little Village, not far from my district. This happened in the spring of 2020, and the dust plumes that resulted blew into neighboring communities and was quite a hazard. As a result, the City of Chicago put in strengthened regulations. But what we realized that... was that there were no statewide regulations governing this process, apart from asbestos regulations. And so, other than that, there's a patchwork of local requirements that vary widely from community to community. And what HB3595 does is put in place uniform statewide standards and a process with strengthened regulations that would prevent future disasters like the one we saw in Little Village, just a few miles from my district. So, the process includes adequate notification, including 60 days at least and a public meeting, air quality monitoring, dust mitigation plan, a contingency plan in case something goes wrong, and a site cleanup plan, as well as fines for noncompliance. And so, you know, there is thought that the IEPA already has statewide regulations in place, but this is not the case. Mah: "That is correct."

Windhorst: "What did they... what did the city do?"

Mah: "They strengthened their regulations. But what I was mentioning before was that, even though that happened in the City of Chicago and the city responded with more robust regulations for permitting for these incidents, that we do not find the same level of safety regulations throughout the state and that there is a patchwork in some places where none exists and in other places where, you know, there might be regulations. But there is a need, we feel, for something that is uniform and statewide standard from municipality to municipality."

Windhorst: "Is this stricter than the standard in the City of Chicago?"

Mah: "No, I don't believe it is. What is required, as I mentioned... you know, there are three parts: adequate notification so that surrounding communities are aware of what's going on and are able to have input; and then an air quality modeling report, a dust mitigation plan, and a contingency plan in case something goes wrong; and then also, a site cleanup plan if there is a disaster that takes place."

Windhorst: "Well, in addition to the City of Chicago responding to what occurred, there are federal regulations in place that deal with..."

Mah: "I'm sorry. I can't hear."

Windhorst: "Sure. In addition to what the City of Chicago did in response, there are federal regulations that are in existence for circumstances like this. Is that correct?"

Mah: "So, there might be federal regulations, but this is fundamentally different. We're talking about creating a process in Illinois that would be uniform across the state."

Windhorst: "Well... so, here is a concern a lot of us have, is that... in downstate Illinois, where, because of actions from government, including this Body, power plants in Southern Illinois and central Illinois are going to be closing. What's being put forward in this Bill is going to make that process more difficult, more onerous, and discourage investment in those communities potentially where those plants are being forced to close by actions of the government. So, there are a lot of concerns that have been expressed about this Bill, and the additional requirements that are being placed by this Bill. Now, I understand the problem that occurred that you described, and obviously, that should not have happened. The City of Chicago has responded and exerted its ability to place regulations in that area. And I'm not here to tell them what they should or shouldn't do, but I don't believe a statewide policy that will implicate, obviously, the entirety of the state is the wise course of action here. I note there are many organizations and businesses who are opposed to this Bill, and I think that's for good reason. So, to the Bill. Based on the many concerns that have been raised, I would encourage a 'no' vote."

Speaker Evans: "Leader Mah to close."

Mah: "I urge an 'aye' vote. Thank you."

Speaker Evans: "The question is, 'Shall House Bill 3595 pass?' All those in favor vote 'aye'; all those opposed vote 'nay'. The voting is open. Have all voted who wish? Have all voted who wish? Speaker Evans: "She indicated she will."

Ugaste: "Representative, I understand the good intention of your Bill, and I'm not trying to diminish from it, but you said it's an unspecified amount?"

Mason: "No, no, no. An undesignated amount. So, for example, there is a similar Bill that allows schools to have an undesignated EpiPen for students that have allergic reactions, meaning there's not a prescription associated to a specific student. So, this would allow the school nurse to keep an undesignated, meaning not intended for any one student, oxygen tank or oxygen concentrator in the event that there's a student oxygen emergency."

Ugaste: "Okay. I misunderstood. Thank you for the clarification."

the IEP. The team should also discuss when and how voter registration will be accomplished, if appropriate. This Bill passed out of the committee unanimously. I ask for an 'aye' vote on the Bill."

Speaker Evans: "Any discussion? Representative Carroll is recognized."

Carroll: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Evans: "She indicated she will."

Carroll: "Representative, is this your first Bill?"

Syed: "Yes, this is."

Carroll: "Okay. So, can you go in to detail on specifically of what an IEP is and what it does?"

Syed: "Yeah, sure. So, an IEP has two general purposes. To establish measurable annual goals for a child and to state the special education-related services and the supplementary aids and services that the public agency will provide to or on behalf of the child. Thank you for asking such an important question."

Carroll: "That's a wonderful... it's a wonderful Bill. Please add me as a Sponsor. And congratulations, Representative."

Syed: "Will do. Thank you so much, Representative."

Speaker Evans: "Representative Ugaste is recognized."

Ugaste: "Thank you. Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Evans: "She indicated she will."

Ugaste: "Representative, maybe I don't have a good understanding of this. I understand what an IEP is. It just means they need... there's extra assistance needed in a learning program. Is that correct?"

Syed: "That is partially what an IEP is."

Ugaste: "Okay."

Syed: "It's to support students with disabilities, and it will help them accomplish additional goals."

Ugaste: "Okay. And in this particular instance, we're going to consider voter registration and what goes into voting. Is that correct?"

Syed: "So, voter registration shall be considered, depending on the IEP team, whether or not it's an appropriate goal for that specific student."

Ugaste: "How much extra assistance is needed by everyone in an IEP program?"

Syed: "I'm not sure if I understand the question."

Ugaste: "Well, the last time I met with the educators in my area, they were talking about how a vast majority of their students... some classes had actually 30 students in an IEP program. And I'm just wondering how much extra assistance, what type of disabilities are being addressed with IEP programs?"

Syed: "So, I'm not... I'm still not sure if I'm understanding the question exactly because this would be when an IEP team is meeting with the parents, with whoever is involved in that planning, and the student themselves to discuss voter registration considered as an appropriate goal. I don't believe that this legislation, voter registration, won't be considered in a room of 30 people, more so when they're developing a comprehensive plan for the individual student."

Ugaste: "Okay. To the Bill. I have to admit I'm a little concerned when our educators are getting involved in voting. I believe everyone should vote and everyone should have the right to vote in civics. Civics should be discussed in school. But to

Speaker Evans: "Representative Blair-Sherlock is recognized."

Blair-Sherlock: "Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Evans: "She indicated she will."

Blair-Sherlock: "Thank you. I would just like to clarify a couple of things. This is merely educating parents and young people how they can register to vote. It's not advocating to them how to vote. It's just presenting them that option. And also, to clarify for anybody who's listening or watching, there are so many different types of disabilities that are addressed with IEPs that the questions that were asked of the Sponsor could not possibly be answered. I'd be happy on private time to explain IEPs a little better to you and the differences of disabilities between the various children in this state. Thank you."

Speaker Evans: "Representative Ladisch Douglass is recognized."

Ladisch Douglass: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The question came up about what an IEP is. It is an Individualized Education Plan. It goes a little beyond a 504, which is often used for children with things like diabetes or who need a wheelchair for school. An IEP assists children who need a little bit more help at school. My son has one. He is a very intelligent child who is an 'A' student, but he needs an aide sometimes, he needs extra time for his work. But he has an IEP, and he is more than capable of voting. However, he might need help filling out the paperwork. And high school is a great time for children to register to vote when they're 17 years old in advance of having to vote later that year. I encourage an 'aye' vote. IEP does not mean these children cannot vote. And I really encourage you to learn more, and I'd be happy to talk to anyone opposed to this Bill. I support it. Thank you."

Speaker Evans: "Representative Caulkins is recognized."

Caulkins: "Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Evans: "She indicated she will."

Caulkins: "Thank you. What keeps the team from talking about voting and registering to vote during an IEP now? I mean, why do we need this Bill?"

Syed: "This Bill opens the door for starting a very important conversation about someone's constitutional right with a very important subset of young people. It tells young people, students with disabilities, that their vote and that their voice matters. And it provides them with the support, if needed, to get registered to vote to exercise their right. I believe that this Bill is extremely critical. New Hampshire passed this Bill, and this Bill is a model of that one. So, I think equipping students with disabilities with the education about their voting rights, I don't know how you can argue against that."

Caulkins: "I guess I don't understand why it's necessary to put this in in a law. I mean, I participated in IEPs for 25 years. I owned group homes for developmentally disabled and made it a practice to sit in to every one of them that I could. And if the person was of voting age, obviously that would be the team's discussion with the individual and their guardian. I don't understand why we need to put this into law. It... it puzzles me."

STATE OF ILLINOIS
103rd GENERAL ASSEMBLY
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
TRANSCRIPTION DEBATE

25th Legislative Day

Syed: "Well, thank you, Representative Caulkins. I think that is a clear reason why you and your caucus should also be supportive of this Bill, and that everyone should. Every student with disabilities, this should be a considered component of their IEP."

Caulkins: "Well, I would think that every... every IEP, every team would... if you're talking to someone that's 17 years old or older, I mean, it seems like this would just be a natural part of that. I guess I'm wondering why we need to make a new law."

Syed: "So, we can't make that assumption. With all due respect, that's not the case right now. It's not necessarily a natural part of it. We're assuming that the IEP team is considering it a natural part. But that's exactly why we need this legislation, to make it a natural part, to equip students with disabilities with this critical information. So, for those reasons, I urge an 'aye' vote from you, Representative Caulkins."

Caulkins: "Thank you."

Speaker Evans: "Representative Weaver is recognized."

Weaver: "Thank you. Does the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Evans: "Indicated she will."

Weaver: "I... I just want to clarify one thing really quickly. So, it was said on the floor that the intention of this is to provide educational materials. But I see here that it says 'the IEP shall consider voter registration as an appropriate goal'. So, am I to understand that it's the educators... it could be part of their metrics of how many students they got

103rd GENERAL ASSEMBLY
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
TRANSCRIPTION DEBATE

25th Legislative Day

signed up. I mean, it's their goal to be signing up kids or is it strictly education material?"

Syed: "No. It's going to be based off metrics. We have an Amendment to make sure that it wouldn't be considered a competency but simply a goal, whether or not it's an appropriate goal for a specific student."

Weaver: "Can you say..."

Syed: "So, IEP teams are not trying to reach a quota of how many students they register to vote."

Weaver: "So, but you... I think you clarified what the goal in the language was, but I think I missed it. If you could just say that again."

Syed: "So, the goal would... so it's... for each individual student, an IEP team can... shall consider whether or not it should be a goal for them to... for the student to register to vote. And if they'd like to, how that process could..."

Weaver: "So, for the student, let's say I want to register to vote. I can set that as my goal. There's something for me set... to set to have achieved."

Syed: "The IEP team can create that goal."

Weaver: "Okay. Thank you. I just wanted to clarify. Thank you."

Syed: "Thank you."

Speaker Evans: "Representative West."

West: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Will the Sponsor yield?"

Speaker Evans: "She indicates she will."

STATE OF ILLINOIS
103rd GENERAL ASSEMBLY
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
TRANSCRIPTION DEBATE

25th Legislative Day

3/22/2023

Syed: "Well, we've seen that, in the past few months, there has been partisan politics around voting rights, but I believe it's absolutely unnecessary and that we should be equipping students with disabilities with this critical, critical piece of information on how to register to vote."

West: "So, we're not sharing with them which way to lean in terms of their voting?"

Syed: "Absolutely not."

West: "You would say that this is a Bill to help make voting more accessible for those who are members of the have-nots, correct?"

Syed: "Yes."

West: "You would say that this is a Bill that will help empower voters even the... more in the State of Illinois, correct?"

Syed: "Yes."

West: "Then I encourage everyone on a nonpartisan basis to vote 'yes' on this important piece of legislation. Thank you so much."

Syed: "Thank you."

Speaker Evans: "Thank you. This Bill is on Short Debate. Representative Mason will be our final comment."

Mason: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To the Bill. I want to tell everyone the story of Wanda, who is one of my constituents, who is a 35-year-old young woman with a disability. And she went through school, and she had an IEP. And on her IEP, as she began to get close to graduation, they put things on it like, 'Get a part-time job.' And then part of her IEP was working to go out and get that job. Finding a cause she believed in to volunteer. These are the types of things that some kids with IEPs have as goals to help them grow and to help them transition into adulthood. So, when I met Wanda, her mom was a volunteer for me, and she joined me. And Wanda was very sad because she said, 'But, Miss Joyce, I can't vote for you.' And I said, 'What do you mean, Wanda, you can't vote?' And she said, 'I can't vote.' And I said, 'Yes, you can.' And her mom looked at me and said, 'She can vote?' And I said, 'Of course she can vote.' So, they went out, and they registered to vote. And she voted for the very first time. And she researched candidates, and she looked people up, and she talked to people, and she was so proud. And she never knew. So, I think people that... you know, sometimes students who need a little extra help and help setting those life goals, being able to vote is one of the most important things we do in this country. So, besides getting a job and figuring out how to volunteer, let's make sure they know they can vote and use their voices. Thanks."

The main portion that I have a problem with currently has to do with the request for personnel records to be sent electronically and whether or not there is liability. Ugaste: "Okay, thank you. To the Bill. As indicated, this has a number of changes to it. One is that personnel records can be disseminated electronically upon the request of an individual. The issue I have with it is, some of those records are deemed privileged, and if the dissemination results in them going to a party other than the intended party, my fear is the business owner could be held liable when all they're

This Bill was brought to me by two medical students who actually suffer from alopecia areata and wanted this to be something that we pursued here in the General Assembly. Alopecia areata is an autoimmune disease where the immune system attacks hair follicles and causes hair loss. The severity and frequency of hair loss varies among people, as does the potential for recovery. The National Alopecia Areata Foundation estimates the condition affects as many as 6.8 million people in the United States. Although alopecia is not life threatening, it is a condition that affects a person's appearance, often leads to stigma, embarrassment, and hardship. This Bill seeks to spark conversation and awareness amongst the autoimmune disease so that we can empower those living with the disease. I ask for an 'aye' vote."

Speaker Evans: "Representative Croke is recognized."

Croke: "Thank you, Speaker. To the Bill. I just want to thank the Sponsor for bringing this. My husband suffers from alopecia and has since high school, and I don't think that it's talked about enough, the impact that it can have on young people. Simply put, our counties had a reentry program for several years. It's reduced recidivism by almost triple, from 49 percent to 18 percent. Opioid deaths have decreased within our correctional facility by 89 percent. That saves taxpayer money. It helps lives. It gives people a chance. This Bill, in particular, allows someone to get transferred back to their home county, if that county has a reentry program, to help them out. Any opposition to the Bill was relieved with the Amendment, which simply says the sheriff has to approve the transfer before actually taking place. I appreciate the bipartisan conversations and support, both in committee and out here on the floor. I ask for a vote in support of this Bill."

Clerk Bolin: "House Bill 3798, a Bill for an Act concerning education. Third Reading of this House Bill."

Speaker Evans: "Representative Stava-Murray is recognized."

Stava-Murray: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today, I am presenting House Bill 1628. Or... sorry, not HB1628. House Bill 3798, which would require all school social work internships to finally be paid. So, this Bill, I worked together with constituents in my district who... a constituent who is the head of the social work organization statewide. And we worked out that, with this requirement, there should also be a grant program, subject to appropriation, for ISBE to give K-12 school districts in order to pay their social work interns, and it will also report on these grants annually. It would require the Illinois Board of Higher Education to do the same for colleges and universities. The reason this Bill is so important comes down to the nationwide and statewide shortage of therapists and other support professionals, especially in our schools and universities. Caring for students' mental health is crucial, but we simply don't have enough trained people to provide these services. Part of the reason for that is exemplified by the fact that some who do provide these services do so without being paid. That's a wrong that needs to be righted. Furthermore, when it comes to who can enter the field, there's currently an inequity because you have to be able to afford to work for free after having gotten the equivalent of a master's degree and have very advanced skills that you're putting to work. I know of no opposition to this Bill. Thank you, Members, and I ask for your vote."

Stava-Murray: "There is no prohibition, but it seems like there's not been a lot of will either, and that's why we are doing a mandate."

Windhorst: "All right. So, this would be a mandate on the school districts to pay. It's a must or shall?"

Stava-Murray: "It's a must. It's a shall."

Windhorst: "And we are, perhaps, attempting to cover the cost with a grant program. Is that correct?"

Stava-Murray: "Correct."

Windhorst: "But that's subject to appropriation?"

Stava-Murray: "And for the... and the grant program is designed to help those districts who would need the help the most. So, not just flat-out 'my district gets tons of money for it and yours gets nothing', but in a fair manner, equitable manner to make sure that those students who have the most need are served first."

Windhorst: "Do... so, it is subject to appropriation. Do we know if there will be an appropriation? Has there been anything been included with the Governor's budget along this line?"

Stava-Murray: "That's currently in negotiation."

Windhorst: "So, I understand the purpose and desire and I... there's a lot of things that you've said I agree with. My concern is, by placing a mandate to pay without having a funding mechanism to provide the grants, there will be many school districts, particularly smaller school districts, which will simply not have internships now. And that will actually be detrimental to those individuals wanting to have internships, wanting to advance their careers, that just simply won't happen. So, to the Bill. For those reasons, I'll be opposed and would encourage a 'no' vote."

Speaker Evans: "Representative Stava-Murray to close."

Stava-Murray: "There's a real shortage of critical workers in our schools..."

Speaker Evans: "Sponsor says she will."

McLaughlin: "Thank you. I appreciate it. I've got a number of school districts that actually have service hours for volunteers for programs that the students use in their college applications. These programs are specifically designed to be volunteer. Would the students be prohibited, in this instance, from not accepting compensation for these volunteer programs that are established in my school districts?"

Stava-Murray: "I'm sorry. Can you repeat that? I just am not clear on that exact program that you're talking about."

McLaughlin: "So, in a number of school districts in my region, students participate in volunteer programs, which is part of what they place on their application for community service when they apply for colleges. It is a volunteer-based program in a number of school districts. Would this preclude students from participating, as it's a mandated compensation, for those students that need service hours for these programs that have been in existence for quite a long time in my school district?"

Stava-Murray: "So, these are simply for social work internships. So, specific only social work internships, which are master's level students who have completed their master's and are coming."

McLaughlin: "Thank you. I appreciate it. Thank you."

Stava-Murray: "Okay."

Speaker Evans: "Representative Stava-Murray to close."

Stava-Murray: "So, this is an incredibly important Bill for the school social workers in our state and for the future of school social workers in our state. And to be able to recruit and retain and implement school social workers at the rate that they're needed, we need to be finding ways to make this career more accessible to them. And this is certainly a way that will make this career more accessible to many. So, I urge an 'aye' vote. Thank you."

Sanalidro: "Hi, yes, Speaker. Thank you. This Amendment is an agreement with the opponents to remove their opposition. The Amendment makes two changes. It removes the Public Aid Code from the Bill at the request of the Department of Health and Family Services. Second, it provides that coverage is only required if the patient is asymptomatic and at high risk for the disease being tested for or demonstrate symptoms of the disease being tested for at a physical exam at the request of some insurers. I know of no remaining opposition and request it be a vote."

her tragic death from breast cancer at age 46. Her start in politics came at a young age, when, at 20 years old, she was elected as an alternate delegate at the 1972 Democratic National Convention, the youngest ever at the time. She also won a seat on the Decatur City Council in 1983, receiving the most votes in history. A champion of working families, a natural, the real deal, Penny was a populist and a progressive before the term was widely used, yet she was beloved by the mostly blue-collar, working-class community of Decatur. A political force to be reckoned with, she ran for the Senate in 1994 and beat a Republican incumbent handily. She was a woman of the people. When one of her public... political opponents hosted an ostentatious $50 a plate fundraising dinner, she responded by hosting a 50-cent dinner with chicken sandwiches and chips. But her supporters loved it, and they loved her. Tough, driven, outspoken, sometimes controversial. While serving in the Senate, Penny continued to make history. She held the position of Minority Caucus Whip and was the first woman to serve as a chief budget negotiator in the Senate. Determined, a fighter, a fierce competitor. In 1994, Penny marked another first. She was the party's nominee for Lieutenant Governor, which was the first and only time there were two women at the top of the ticket in Illinois. Her next move, to run for Secretary of State, was abruptly curtailed when her cancer returned with a vengeance. She passed away far too soon in 1998. So, I never met Penny, but I feel like I did because this is not the first time I have mentioned her name on the House Floor. The first time I did was to tell a love story during the marriage equality debate about a great, but hidden, love between Penny and her then partner, and my dear friend, Terry Mutchler. In fact, my friend Terry wrote a book about their story called Under This Beautiful Dome. It's a story about love and politics and healing. A story that has become part of the rich tapestry of this amazing woman's life. After Penny died, her brother, who is a firefighter in Decatur, was stopped in a grocery store wearing a jacket with her last name on it. The woman came up to... a woman came up to him and said, 'Are you related to Penny Severns, the Senator?' He said, 'Yeah, I was.' And she told the story of how years ago she was in line at the pharmacy, didn't have enough money to pay her prescription. Penny reached into her purse, paid, but never told a soul. Stories like this were not uncommon. That is a real legacy. One of a kind, a loyal friend, one of the loveliest people that ever walked. Penny has been described as one of a kind by so many people. Her life was tragically short but packed with a commitment to service and a passion for life that we can only hope to achieve. She is an example for all of us as to what it means to truly serve. Thank you."

Massachusetts, studied law at the University of Chicago, at Columbia, and at even Oxford. After graduating, she was admitted to the bar and returned to Illinois to practice law in Chicago in 1923. She was active in the National Women's Lawyers Association and the National Women's Republican Club. In 1932, she returned to her home in Milford to practice law in Iroquois County and even became a judge in the 1930s, one of Illinois' first female judges. As if that wasn't enough, she also was a director of the Sumner National Bank in a nearby town of Sheldon. Soon she heard the calling for politics, and in 1938, she ran for and won a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives, becoming one of the first women to represent Illinois in Congress. She served four terms in the House during the final years of the Great Depression and through World War II before retiring from politics in 1947. She was ahead of her time in warning that the Soviet Union had bad intentions for Eastern Europe. Once again, she came back home to Milford and resumed her service to the community as vice president of the local bank and later as president, a post that she held until she passed away in 1994 at the age of 96. Jessie Sumner, a true trailblazer and community servant, is buried in Maple Grove Cemetery in her beloved hometown of Milford. Join me in recognizing the late Jessie Sumner."
