

Supporting Information N°5: Macroscopic view of CM40 after ampicillin loading, freeze drying and drug release. Incubation with a 200 mg/mL solution altered the collagen matrix structure. These matrices recovered their gel form after the drug release. In contrast, no structural modification was observed for the other types of matrices.