

(E-Warehouse Consulting)

(www.ewcconsulting.com)

(Mr. Esosa Tiven Orhue, Founder/CEO, orhuesosa@yahoo.co.uk)

Chapeau

(The global system is a meeting point for organizations and nations. No matter how intelligent and developed one is, there must be a meeting point to foster growth and development for what you have and known. Therefore, we all need each other to further the world development that will reflect in our lives, organizations and nations. No one is an inland in international system, it is a collective responsibility to foster international development. According to some scholars, the empirical assumption of modernization and dependency theories will foster a nation development which other scholars have also critiqued and admitted. But there is more to this that will initiate and foster global development in the context of nations and organizations which is self discovery. This is a reflection of a true development that ascertain your well-being in the global system.

The global system is a market place where different ideas and strategies are traded and marketed. This is the basis of international relations that has brought globalization to everybody. In other words, nations depend on each other to survive in the global system which is 'interdependent'. However, we must be able to itemize and highlight the differences and benefits of these effects on humanity and nations for effective maximization of events that foster global development.)

Chapter I. Sustainable development and financing for development

(Sustainable development and Financing for development: This is a primary core for global development which cut-across all sectors in the global system reflecting in the national state of nations. The world exists on sustainability development because of continuous policies sustained and financing especially in the global north. What keeps the world going is the ideas, policies, discoveries made and sustained. However, the world can only survive on these mechanism to further development and sustainable economy.

The developed countries leveraged on these factors to sustain the temple of their development without compromise and their economy kept growing and developing. While the developing countries struggle with this, and their economy have been affected and suffer defect on growth and development. The beautiful aspect of this is that every policy must be considered whether short or long term as long it has the characteristics of development, must be sustain especially the developing nations. And this has to do with good governance for accountability that transforms a nation's economy.

Sustainable development works when there is constant and consistent policies' implementation, good administration, leadership development, management and governance. When these are in place the nation or organization is bounds to thrive and make a difference in economic's narrative. The goals are clear, decisions are taken seriously and adhered to. The best hands and competent personnel are given opportunities to explore and make the difference in their economy. Government is not longer see as the only means of political achievement or power in the society. The technocrats are given chance to manage the economy and quarry when there is a short fall and they take responsibility of the deficiency of the economy. In other words, a government should be able to take responsibility of the economy growth and development without shying away. This will fix the lagging sectors and make they productive and sustainable.

Meanwhile, implementation policies should also be consistent irrespective of the government of the day. The subject of the matter is the 'state' not party or individual but state which we serve via the party or individual.

However, global north has been able to leveraged on this, the global south should learn and take cue as dependency and modernization theories assumed. The purpose for continuity is not for the party or individual but the state for sustainable growth and development. Every good policy should continue from where the previous administrator stop to enhance continuity in economy development of the country. When this is done the global south can compete favourable with global north in economy growth and development and there would be substantial societal development.)

Chapter II. International peace and security

(International peace and security: United Nations (UN) is the custodian of this with the Security Council. If these are willing and ready to take responsibility the world will enjoy the peace it desire despite no world's government. Anarchy and crisis will be minimize because they have what it take to make the world peaceful and secured. Security dilemma is in the hands of these hegemons of the world. The day they resolve their differences, the world will experience new dimension of world's peace and security. We are having conflicts in the world today because of the politics among them. Resolve the politics, peace is guaranteed and sure! They have the power to deter, threaten any aggressor, form a formidable alliance that could serve as equilibrium power to any. This terms to balance the power of others. In other words, there is room for balance of power that will not create room for excess power for dominance and aggressor.

Again, UN should be allowed to function maximally without interference from these superpower states or being micromanaged with national interest. Weaker states should not be victimized when they refuse to serve the interest of these superpower nations. If nations are allowed to function within their sovereignty and territorial integrity, without interference in others' internal affairs, this will reduce world's crisis and conflicts. Meddling into internal affairs of nations generates suspicious concern and fear. Independence should be maintained except when nations involve in conflicts, UN and Security Council can involve to mediate which is in the ambit of their jurisdiction. This creates room for coexistence and live peacefully and amicably with themselves without fear.

Moreover, should in case conflicts arise, UN should be given full support by these superpower states in terms of military and economic support to ensure victory is on the side of UN without playing politics with conflicts. UN should also be ready to make a critical decision that affects both the superpower and none to ensure peace for all. The principal power lies within the UN, that is why they lead conflict resolution at all levels within the global system. In other words, the interest of a nation should not overrun the interest of the world irrespective of the nation's involvement. The primary goal is that every nation is equal before UN according to the charter which we know, except some otherwise. Proliferation of armaments should be discouraged by these nations and encourage economic cooperation.

These nations should serve the collective goal of UN not national interest which is the basis of the international conflicts. Furthermore, there should be economy fostering and cooperation among them to see the world development at large. When nations cooperate in international system peace is guaranteed for all. However, the world can be more peaceful when there is togetherness and cooperation in economic development.)

Chapter III. Science, technology and innovation and digital cooperation

(Science, technology and innovation and digital cooperation: The world is in dire need of this sector especially the developing nations. The global north has gone far on this while the global south lags behind. However, there is need for the global south to key into this global development to see an even development around the world. This sector should be a critical sector for all governments of nations because of the drive in the society. Today the world is science oriented and the basis of economy growth and development is driven by this. My suggestion on this is that the bilateral or multilateral trade between or among nations should be for raw materials and science and technology knowledge and skills exchange. Secondly, education should be encouraged in this order whether conventional or not. The cooperation should be from primary through secondary to university level. Every innovation and ideas should be quickly harnessed for nation's productivity. Policy that boost science and technology should be encourage. Every nation should have a research hub toward this development that foster economic strength. Centre for innovation should be created within the nations, this will help harness and enhance discoveries and build on the important in the society. Students should be encourage in this order with tuition free or reduction to create avenue for the best to emerge. The world can witness this more when there is cooperation among themselves and especially the global south. The global north became developed when industrial revolution emerged. Today globalization has emerged but the effect on the global south is not seen. This is why economic cooperation is advocated and called for to foster development in these nations.

Again, fund should be made available for research, discoveries, innovations and policies that will foster the sector. Those that have passion and interest in these their effort should not be undermine nor compromise. The idea of dependency should be seriously fought among the global south and this will push to industrial revolution among them.)

Chapter IV. Youth and future generations

Youth and future generations: The youths are the future development of any society. When the youths have what it take to grow and develop a nation is set for astronomic development. In other words, organizations that serve youths' leadership should be encourage. The youth should not be seen as the leaders of tomorrow but to involve and participate in any dispensation for future experience and contribution for society well-being. The youth can only be the leaders of tomorrow when they are engaged today, in policies making, implementation and critical decision of the economic. In other words, when they are engaged social vices are reduce and a good society is created for up coming ones. The youth of today is what determine the stand of the youth of tomorrow. So they should be involve in governance of a nation to gather experience, consolidate and be consistent in policies innovation and implementation.

No nation grows without the youth engagement and contribution to national development of their states. The work force of any nation is majorly centre on the youth. Therefore, they should be equipped academically, make to learn skills, participate in research and programmes implementation. These are some channels their knowledge and skills would be useful to the society.

However, to see the potential of youth educate them, fund them and allow they to participate in national development. This is the time of self discovery for professional development that foster economic development of a nation. They should be supported in inventories, innovations and discoveries at all times.)

Chapter V. Transforming global governance

(Transforming global governance: This lies on good leadership and management. This is what drives a society for development. The sustainability development is anchor on this. Economic growth and development is anchor on this. Science, technology and innovation and digital cooperation are anchor on this. The issue of development starts and ends with a transformed government. A nation can be transformed and experience economic growth and development when there is a transformed government. To have continuity and be consistent in policies implementation that government must be transformed in discharge of her responsibility. The economic is foster by this good leadership in place in helm of affairs. It is what brings the balance of development to the system.

This is the advantage of global north over the global south, because it is a preservative mechanism to consistency and continuity of policies implementations of administrators. In other words, everybody must be involve, which means inclusive governance for development. And it must be taken seriously because it is the key to all sector for transformation.

Finally, the world can be transformed when this is accepted and in place by all and the role of UN is clear on this. Which means willing to assist everyone for sustainable development and financing their economic growth especially the developing nations. In other words, transparency, accountability and sustainability should be adhered to and observed in all dimension of transformation and development.)

Thank you.